POTATOES AU GRATIN
For the potatoes au gratin take one pound of sound potatoes until soft, press the pulp through a potato ricer, and beat in half a teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of cayenne pepper, place in a saucepan, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, and beat smooth. Then beat in one egg yolk, and three tablespoonfuls of grated cheese. Place the mixture in a buttered glass or earthenware dish, sprinkle the top with grated cheese and bread crumbs. Bake fifteen minutes in a medium oven.

ARTICHOKES GINESE
Trim four globe-artichokes; remove some of the tough outer leaves and cut off half the tops. Boil in soup stock until tender; then drain, cut in quarters and serve with the following sauce:
Put in a saucepan one tablespoonful of butter and one of four: cook for two minutes and then add one cup of port wine, one cup of brandy, one teaspoonful of tarragon vinegar and simmer a few minutes, and just before serving stir in the juice of two lemons.

PIMENTO SALAD
Drain the contents of a small can of pimentos. Dry on a cloth and place in a bowl. Add an equal amount of olive oil and mix with the pepper; add one cupful of small balls made of cheese rolled in fine cracker crumbs, and mix. Then add a few drops of lemon juice and mix. Serve in a bowl.

PHILADELPHIA CRAB
Boil one medium-sized crab until tender, then peel and cut in dice, add six large peeled tomatoes, sliced in rings, cut up an equal amount of crab meat, three well-beaten eggs and a seasoning of pepper and salt. Place the mixture in a hot fry pan and cook with four tablespoonfuls of butter and cook thoroughly. Then place in an earthenware baking dish and cover with bread crumbs and pieces of butter, and brown well in the oven. Serve in the same dish.

WILLIAM FRY was the first to see the spot. He was an expert at such gatherings. With an expression of intense happiness on his features, he stood over the victim of the accident, listening to his groans as if to the sweetest music. When the crowd of spectators had swelled to a dense packed throng, William saw a violent commotion in the crowd opposite him. Men were hurled aside like dominoes by the impact of some moving body that drove them like the rush of a tornado. With shouts, umbrellas, hats, purses, and fingerings flying, the crowd was hurled back. William saw a violent commotion in the crowd opposite him. The next morning of the bare and hoarse was in front of a board fence near Broadway. The day had been a disappointing one. There had been no signs on the street, children had kept from under the wheels of the street cars, and the man in the suit and hat had been disappointed. The day had been a disappointing one. When a baby of 1 month begins to eat, it is possible that there may be some trouble unless the following warnings are kept in mind. New foods, especially vegetables and fruits, are laxative in tendency and if the child is given a full feeding of any vegetable, there is bound to be unusual bowel activity. Also carrots and spinach tend to show in the stool and this usually frightens the timid mother in believing that these vegetables are not being properly digested.

MALONEY DEFEATS DELANEY VIA DECISION ROUTE

THIRTY THOUSAND FANS STUNNED BY RING UPSET

Favorite Unable to Check March of Bostonian in Fierce Ten-Round New York Bout

BY L. S. DAYTON
NEW YORK, Feb. 18. (AP)—Within the shadow of the championship gateway, Jack Delaney, king of the bantamweights, tonight came to the turning point in his career of pugilistic conquest.

Blow-by-Blow Story of Wild New York Bout

ROUND ONE
Maloney aimed the first blow, a left to the head. Jim tried to slip it, but Delaney was over him. The Boston boy slipped in, both hands reaching for a smashing right and left to the stomach. Delaney dodged away, but Maloney kept after him, whirling around the ring to reach another left to the body. As they came to the ropes, up stood Delaney's right hand, but it missed. Again Delaney's right hand, landing high on the head. They looked each other over as Maloney came to close quarters with a left to the head. Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

ROUND TWO
Maloney stuck out that long left from a crouch. Delaney ducked it down and swung both feet at close quarters. Maloney sprang forward, reaching for the body with the left and the right. Delaney dodged away, but Maloney kept after him, whirling around the ring to reach another left to the body. As they came to the ropes, up stood Delaney's right hand, but it missed. Again Delaney's right hand, landing high on the head. They looked each other over as Maloney came to close quarters with a left to the head. Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

ROUND THREE
Delaney ducked back and forth, arm at his side, while Maloney tried to land a left to the head. The Boston Canadian lifted a smashing right to the head and Maloney dodged away. Again Maloney was in, reaching over to the body. Delaney dodged away, but Maloney kept after him, whirling around the ring to reach another left to the body. As they came to the ropes, up stood Delaney's right hand, but it missed. Again Delaney's right hand, landing high on the head. They looked each other over as Maloney came to close quarters with a left to the head. Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

ROUND FOUR
The battle was over. Delaney's right hand, landing high on the head. They looked each other over as Maloney came to close quarters with a left to the head. Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

ROUND FIVE
Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

ROUND SIX
Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

ROUND SEVEN
Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

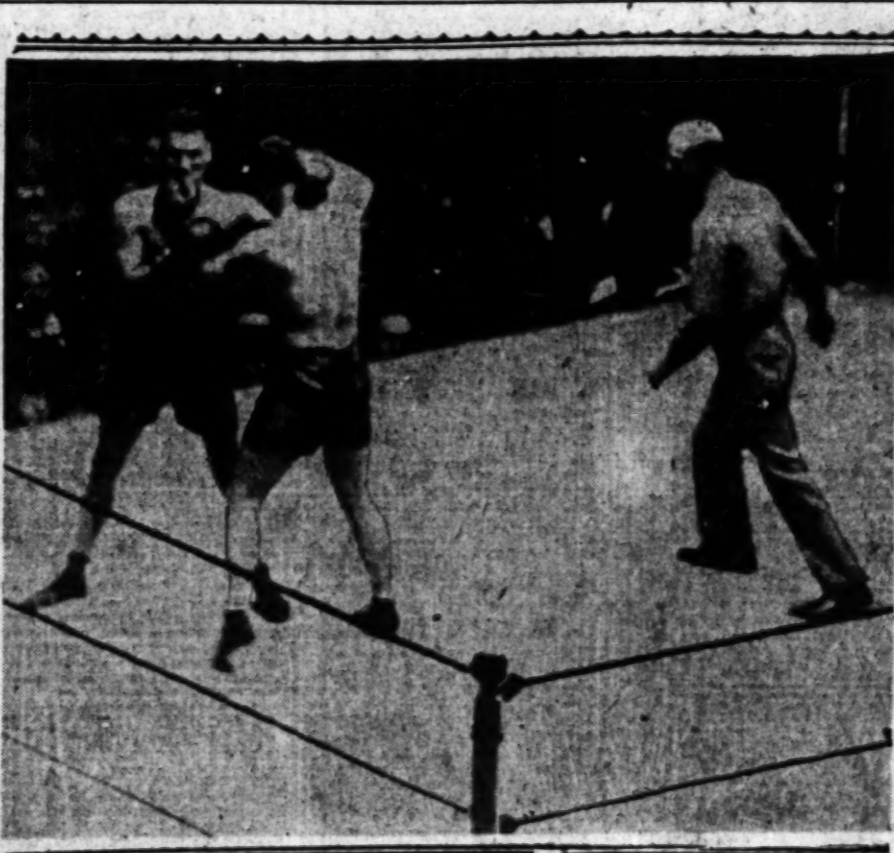

ROUND EIGHT
Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

ROUND NINE
Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

ROUND TEN
Delaney was looking a little better, but he was not in the mood to fight with a man who had just hit him with a left to the head and a right to the body. Delaney came to their senses at the bell.

HOW THEY LOOKED IN RING LAST NIGHT

JACKIE FIELDS IS NOT FOR SALE, DECLARES GIG ROONEY

BY PAUL LOWRY
"Jackie Fields' contract is not for sale to Eddie Kane or any other fighter," declared Willie Rooney, manager of the lightweight champion, today. "I've got the best light heavyweight in the world, and I'm going to keep him."

GOING TO BENEFIT
"I brought him up to the top as a lightweight, campaigned him slowly, and now I'm going to reap the benefit," said Rooney. "Fields is almost 21, and as soon as he attains his majority we're moving in on New York. And when I take him there I don't need the help of Kane, he was hinted, or any other manager. It was proposed that I sell Fields to Jack Kane. I turned that down just like I would an offer from Kane."

VERNON DARE
NEXT TUESDAY
The Vernon coliseum will be dark next Tuesday. Unable to secure a first-class main event to take the place of the postponed Willie-Tendler battle, Matchmaker Hayden Wadhams yesterday announced there will be no show until March. By that time Tendler hopes to be in shape to give that up-and-coming Fields match he's not picking one.

ANDERSON SIGNS CONTRACT

Hollywood Outfielder Purchased From Louisville Mails in Document; Vitt Expected Today

BY BOB RAY
Mr. H. William Lane, president and official worrier of the Hollywood ball club, heaved a deep sigh of relief yesterday afternoon when the signed contract of John Anderson, the outfielder whom the Stars purchased from Louisville, arrived at Wrigley Field. That the reason his contract hadn't been sent in sooner was because he had moved and the document didn't reach him until recently.

Oscar Vitt, manager of the Stars, is expected in from Oakland today. Vitt is going to talk over things with Lane and make final arrangements for the opening of the season.

STECHER BOUT IN OFFING
Lou Daro says he threw out his line for a shark and caught a whale. The local wrestling promoter wanted to sign Jimmy London to meet the winner of the Paul Jones-George Kotsonaros match of next Wednesday night. London, known in wrestling as a prima donna in temperament, refused Daro's terms. As a "feeler" Daro had sent a wire to Joe Stecher, world's heavyweight champion.

MISS HOLLINS GOLF FINALIST

Former National Champion Trims Mrs. Mida

Mrs. Melvin Jones to Play for Title Today

New Yorker Heavy Favorite to Cop Laurels

DEL MONTE, Feb. 18. (AP)—Miss Marion Hollins, New York, today defeated Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago, 7 and 5, and won a place in tomorrow's final for the annual Pebble Beach championship of 100 women.

Miss Hollins' opponent will be Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, who today eliminated M. L. A. Alice Hanchett, San Francisco, 3 and 2, in a 18-hole semifinal.

Golf experts give Mrs. Jones an outside chance to win the championship, but Miss Hollins, four times winner of the title, was the favorite to retain her honors. Mrs. Hollins played with absolute confidence, unshaken by bad breaks and poorly hit shots.

Mrs. Jones got away to a good start in her match with Miss Hanchett, and maintained her lead. Miss Hanchett made longer shots from the tee, but Mrs. Jones excelled her in play through the fairway.

Miss Hanchett, however, outlasted her opponent on the greens. On the little seventh she holed an approach putt from fifty feet for a birdie two. In the defeated end of the championship, Mrs. Hunter Robbins of Philadelphia defeated Miss Marie of New York in a slow and uninteresting ten-round bout at the Hollywood American Legion last night.

There was little action until the final round, when Marie planted a left hook on Wagner's chin. The blow would have scored Eddie had it not been for the ropes. Marie chased his rival all over the inclosure in an effort to put him away, but Wagner weathered the storm.

HUDKINS TO MEET COLIMA

Wildcat Will Sign Today for Wrigley Field Battle With Mexican

ACE HUDKINS will sign papers this morning to meet Bert Colima, the Whittier Mexican, in a ten-round bout of an open-air show at Wrigley Field Saturday, March 5. Dick Donaid, popular promoter of out-of-door spectacles, is staging the affair, and will entertain both principals in his office at 10 o'clock this morning for the official signing.

Hudkins, fresh from a thrilling victory over Billy Alger, and a five-round verdict over Billy Atkinson, will go into training at once for the bout. His two hands, slightly injured in his Atkinson victory, are not in such bad shape that he cannot train.

Capacity Crowd of 12,000 Watches Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—Unleashing a determined attack late in the first half and continuing their pace until the end of the game, University of California varsity basketball players turned back the Stanford University team, 25 to 24, in the opening game of their annual series to-night at the Oakland Auditorium.

A capacity crowd of close to 15,000 fans watched the Bears sweep to a 15-11 fourth straight conference victory.

Conceded little chance against the powerful California five the Cards started the game with a surprising rush and were out in front during the greater part of the first half. At one time the Stanford men enjoyed a 9-5 lead.

Near the end of the initial session, however, the Cards defense wilted before the Bear attack and at the intermission the winners walked off the court with a 15-11 advantage.

Wally Jayred, star Stanford center, opened the second half with a new field goal from under the University of California basket, to bring the score to 15-12. At this juncture, however, the Bears tightened their defense, stymied their attack and stepped into a commanding lead.

I'm the gink who always apologizes for my house and table. I never gave a dinner as good as those I have when you aren't visiting me. I always come out with some statement such as: "My dear, this is a terrible dinner. You'll just have to excuse it." etc. Of course, I went into exhaustive detail to make it as fine a dinner as possible and I know you know it. Still I like to give the impression that it is a failure. I know that will spur you on to words of praise. My house never looks as nice when you come to see me as it does at other times. I apologize for that, too. I fool no one, but I do get a kick out of your protestations that everything is fine.

The Jacket Ensemble

... a new achievement this spring endorsed by Paris ...

So significant a style is it that already it has been developed in street, sports and dress versions.

Priced $45 to $95

The Jacket Ensemble, embodying youth in its every line, utility in its double offering of separate dress and jacket, and chic in combining these two for wear together, stands forth as an outstanding contribution to Spring fashion.

In some the jacket is sleeveless, in many the dress is sleeveless, but most frequently they both have sleeves and can be worn with other costumes.

HOMELIKE AIR TO GREAT WHITE WAY

Love of Follies' Gaiety Pleasingly Presented by Meliora Trio at Loew's

There have been literally dozens of Follies girls with "hearts of gold" depicted on the screen, but this stock character can now be retired to the ash heap.

Billie Dove, who appears in "An Affair of the Follies" at Loew's State this week, portrays a chorus girl so convincingly, and so appealingly, that any other screen beauty might well hesitate at running competition in a like role.

"An Affair of the Follies" depicts a young girl who is a chorus girl and the glided champagne palaces along the White Way. There are no orgies with scantily draped and skimpily young women dancing on the supper tables, and there are no drawing-rooms of the general size of a railway station.

It's a simple, little story, done without fuss or feathers. A show girl marries a sixty-year-old clerk and leaves the Follies. When hard times come a-knocking at the door she goes back to the stage to pay the bills. Her husband leaves, his pride rebelling at the fact his wife must work. There is a millionaire admirer of the wife. He is the nearest approach to a villain, but he is a whimsical, kindly villain.

There is a clever twist at the end, the millionaire unknowingly advising the husband how to win back his wife.

Billie Dove has made remarkable strides in the last year on the screen. In addition to her undeniable beauty she has some very effective dramatic scenes. Lloyd Hughes makes an attractive lover for the elusive Billie. Their love scenes are especially well handled, which is a good thing, considerable footage was devoted to "climaxes."

Lewis Stone was the charming millionaire suitor of the chorus girl. It is almost the ultimate in witiness to say that Stone stands supreme as the gentlemanly Beau Brummel. He is an asset to any picture.

"An Affair of the Follies," a ridiculously unimaginative title, by the way, was adapted from Dixie Willson's story, "Here Y'Are Brother." Millard Webb directed this first National picture.

Arthur Stone, Arthur Hoyt, who was excellent as the inventor, and Bertram Marburgh were also in the cast.

Falcon and Marco presents a particularly elaborate "Treat" this week, featuring Edna Covey, late of "Louis the Fourteenth." Doris Eaton and Larry Calahan's serpentine girls.

Miss Covey is a clever eccentric dancer, doing an amusing burlesque on Pavlova's dance, "The Swan."

Doris Eaton, who appeared in an earlier edition of the Hollywood Music Box Revue, is held over for a second week at Loew's. Her "Africa" and doll dances pleased the house, and she possesses an unusually exuberant personality. The serpentine number is, of course, one of the most effective dance drills the Los Angeles stage has seen and was another late feature of the Hollywood revue.

Genial Gene Morgan pleases his followers this week and they seem to be legion, with a series of her impromptu stunts.

FANNIE WARD RETURNS

Immortal Flapper Will Present Act at Orpheum

Amusements—Entertainments

In Whimsical Mystery Play

Margaret Wessner

Who will appear in "The Tavern," opening Monday night at the Biltmore under the Macdon management.

"SO'S YOUR OLD MAN"

If he is a prince of a chap, if he has a leaning toward a certain berserger carried on the hip, if he is a wizard at inventing unbreakable glass, and after many hardships proves to be the most revered citizen of the proverbial "small town"—well—

"So's Your Old Man," featuring W. C. Fields, made its initial appearance yesterday afternoon at the Uptown Theatre, and judging from the enthusiastic reception given it by the audience, it may be gathered that it was more than an ordinary success.

The plot was an exceedingly funny one, dealing with the trials of a suspected husband whose gallant return to any offered insult were the four words, "So's Your Old Man."

When aforementioned husband discovers a process whereby automobile windshields may be made of unbreakable glass, when he departs gaily to Washington to demonstrate his discovery to the automobile association, and when all his plans are blasted because of the number of divers in the city, laughs prove to be continual.

As the Spanish princess, Alice Joyce's loveliness was, as ever, a pleasing touch, and she gave her usual commendable performance.

Last but not least, one should mention the clever, subtle decorations by John Held Jr. The drawings depicted the substance of the titles, and proved a feature of genuine amusement.

Abe Lyman and his Brunswick Recording Orchestra enlivened the enjoyable program with "perky" and "syncopation." Some clever artists, including a "blues" singer, an unusually versatile acrobatic dancer and a lively ukulele artist were introduced in the prologue.

The comedy featuring Neal Burns, and a news reel completed the performance.

ISLAND OF EXILE IS BACKGROUND OF PLOT

Pauline Frederick returns to the screen today at the Figueroa Theatre in a new triumph called "Devil's Island," a romance of the tropics with the penal colony of the French Guiana as a background.

It is said that Miss Frederick has never had a stronger role than that of Jeanette Pisto in this story and she has the support of Richard Tucker, William Dunn, Lee White, John Laury, George Lewis, Harry Northrup and Marian Nixon. The story was written by Leah Baird, herself a screen star and was directed by Frank O'Connor.

Salvatore Santella's twenty-artist concert orchestra on the stage in a series of numbers and a two-reel comedy in addition to the regular news and novelty reels completes the program.

GREATEST MISTAKE IS HARD TO FIND

Metropolitan Feature Proves Vague; Presentation is Light and Pleasing

BY KATHERINE LIPKE

"Love's Greatest Mistake" is a loss of faith, according to a subtitle in the Paramount production of this name, which opened yesterday at the Metropolitan Theatre. However it is more difficult to discover the greatest mistake in the picture.

This film version of Frederick Arnold Kummer's Liberty Magazine serial seems to be a mass of unrelated incidents which never quite get together enough to be called a plot. Furthermore, the title is practically all that is left of the original story.

The theme involves a young girl who comes to New York to visit her married sister, discovers that her sister is involved in an affair with another man, gets herself into a slight affair with a wealthy man, finally gets out of trouble, marries a nice quiet young architect, and the sister runs off with her own husband.

Although Evelyn Brent is extravagantly featured in all advertising, she has but a minor role with no chance to be her usual vivid interesting herself. I entered the Metropolitan when the picture was a third way through, and it wasn't until the final reel that Miss Brent even appeared.

A newcomer by the name of Josephine Dunn has the leading role in "Love's Greatest Mistake" and is exceedingly attractive. In fact, she promises to be a real comer in pictures. Here was really the only important part in the film, and she makes the most of it.

James Hall appears as the young, earnest go-getter who is so busy getting and getting that he nearly loses out with the girl he loves. Mr. Hall is presented in the role of a third way through, and it wasn't until the final reel that Miss Brent even appeared.

"Love's Greatest Mistake" is directed by Edward Dmytryk, and it is certainly done in a standard he has hitherto set for himself.

"It is the Hill" is the name of a stage revue presented at the Metropolitan this week by Bob Nelson. Light and enjoyable songs and dancing and effective scenery. The Angles Sisters, Clay Stearns, Wilfred Freeman and the Metropolitan women hearts are much in evidence and aid in making this week's stage presentation worth the watching, while Bob Nelson smilingly presides over the scene.

NEW DRAMA SCHEDULED AT MOROSCO

Stage Set for World Premiere of Hattens' Play Tomorrow

The stage is all set for the world premiere tomorrow afternoon at the Morosco of "Synthetic Sin," the most recent play of Frederick and Fannie Hatten, the authors of several Broadway plays.

It is said that stage business and details have been perfected by James Durkin, the director, and the Hattens, who are aiding him in staging the play.

The regular Morosco cast has been augmented with several players. Alma Telford and John Lital, who take the leading roles, and Elizabeth Allen and Mitchell Harris, participate in the cast, will be aided by Bertram Grassby, who has for the past few years been acting for the silver screen. Jane Morgan, Iva Shepard, James Bush, Harry Garrity, Harry Hoyt, Frederick Fyurn and Leslie Wynn, regular players of the Morosco company, will have Aldean Wise, William Franklin, Arthur Belasco and Charles Buck to play with them in "Synthetic Sin."

"Synthetic Sin" is a play of stage life and the underworld. Betty Fairfax, a youthful actress, decides to delve into the shadier side of life in order to feel all the emotions of life and so become a better actress. The Morosco management announces that there will be a special matinee of "Synthetic Sin" Tuesday, a holiday.
